Look To The '70s

(An Editorial)

The '60s are over. We can breathe a sigh of relief or feel a touch of sadness at their passing.

But, they have left a legacy—a legacy rich with firsts, filled with new heights in scientific and human endeavor. They have left a legacy, too, of restlessness. A war unfinished. A people unjoined. A youth unhappy.

And yet, it is with optimism that we view the '70s (which others have even more optimistically named the "soaring '70s.") Many of America's problems can be solved only by time. Others by the wisdom which time brings.

The '70s are upon us before we had time to digest the '60s. May we have the time, patience and understanding in the '70s to look deeper at our problems lest the decade's events become bitter pills upon which we choke.

News Brief

Mr. and Mrs. John Hatchel of Delbert Lowes of Canyon. The Abilene and Barbara visited recently in the home of Mrs. Hatchel's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christmas holidays here.

WALTER SHELLEY, 1201 7th Avenue, pulls his sons, Peter, 7, and Timothy, 5, on a sled in the snowpacked streets of Canyon early Monday morning.

Accompanied By Icy Temperatures

5-Inch Snow Hits City, Slows Traffic

BY SAM ALLRED Tuesday morning combined to give area residents a belated White Christmas and a bad case of the 'I wish I didn't have to get out of beds."

The temperature plummeted to 4 degrees at 4 a.m. Tuesday and only managed to reach 7 degrees in time to greet people inching to work at 7 a.m.

The inching was necessary because what was powdery and soft when it first started falling Sunday turned icy and slick with the freezing temperatures, giving area roads the firm traction of Olympic bobsled runs.

The first sight greeting many early risers Monday as they stepped out on front porches was automobiles buried hubcap-deep in snow.

While many motorists were able to dig out and carefully feel their way to work, many on the expressway and back roads met slippery defeat.

"We have had six or eight calls for the wrecker this morning," said J. T. Gillham, manager of Randall Motors, early Monday. "It was mostly cars stuck and they were scattered in all parts of town."

Glenn Dorris of the Dorris Garage said his wrecker made about 10 trips, "mostly to side roads and in the country."

"What gets people in trouble is the blowing snow," he said. The wind also made life difficult for the men charged with keeping highways clear, and robbed farmers of part of the moisture value of the snow.

The Texas Highway Department began attacking the huge deposits of snow about 5:30 p.m. Sunday and worked throughout the night, all of Monday and Monday night.

"We have about 20 to 25 pieces of equipment we can use for snow removal," said James Reagan, T. H. D. maintenance construction supervisor in Amarillo.

"These include trucks with snow blades, motor graders, one large snow blower and a heavy v-type plow with power wing."

Reagan said normal policy was to work "heavy traffic roads first, then farm roads and state highways."

"We try to serve the largest number first," he said. "The hill leading down into Canyon is always a problem, but we were out putting salt and sand on it all night and I think it is under control for the moment."

Reagan said the snow was a secondary problem to the wind.

Blaze Destroys Garage And Car

A detached garage at 602 W. 7th Ave., and a 1967 model automobile within the garage were completely destroyed by a fire which occurred about 3 a.m. Tuesday.

Lt. Joe Rice of the Canyon Fire Department said six units were dispatched to the fire, which was reported to the fire department as a trailer house fire.

"We were afraid there might be someone in it, so we sent our major equipment," Rice said.

The garage, owned by C. L. Westfall, was heated by an open flame heater, which is believed to have caused the fire.

Lt. Rice said the sub-freezing weather, which dropped to 4 degrees at 4 a.m., caused several minor freeze-ups "but nothing serious."

Norma Perkins was a houseguest in the home of her mother, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Stewart, during the holidays. Mrs. Perkins is from Ennis, Texas.

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

New Year's Day is the time for making new resolutions. But only the young in heart, who still have hope of making the world a better place for human habitation, resolve to do better.

The discouraged, disillusioned, and defeated of all ages lack the courage to try to improve themselves.

Life is comparable to a football game; if one plays, one must expect to get hurt. But even if life does not always run smoothly, the trend in civilization is continually upward.

It is not the failure to keep good resolutions that is tragic, but the failure to make them. "Nothing essayed, nothing gained." It is better to attempt to do much and fail than to attempt nothing and succeed.

Our Creator is aware of our weaknesses; He does not condemn us because of them. We are not required to do work that is beyond our strength and capacities. How then are we to know what to resolve to do?

The majority of us know much better how to perform our daily duties than we do them; we could resolve to perform our routine chores more faithfully and efficiently. That would probably lighten our own load and ease the burdens of our associates.

We could all profitably resolve to take better care of our bodies and our material possessions, and live within our incomes and the law of the land. And because truth is the gateway to freedom, we should all press forward in an eternal quest for knowledge and truth.

Everyone becomes discouraged at times. And sometimes discouragement becomes such a thick, black, impenetrable curtain that one cannot find his way out alone.

When one is in the throes of an emotional depression, the whole world looks dark, dreary, and desolate. It is like viewing one's reflection in a distorted mirror: The image reflected may bear no resemblance to reality.

If everyone would resolve to keep his own house in such good physical, emotional, and spiritual order that he would have the time and strength to help his neighbor, what a wonderful world this could be.

The Creator is still holding the reins of the Universe. It should encourage the defeated, who feel it is useless to resolve to do better because the world is hopeless anyway, to be aware of that fact.

Man has always had his ups and downs, and currently he does seem to be on the downgrade. But as long as civilization continues to take two steps forward and only one step back, we are successfully climbing the hill. The present world trend is toward collectivism, cooperatives, conglomerates, and communes. Yet men are created as individuals. Every personal trait of each new baby is individual—down to his fingerprints. And he needs the freedom and opportunity to develop his own individuality if he is to make a worthwhile contribution to the world.

It is normal to want to live and be happy. The wisest man who ever lived gave mankind a superlative recipe for life and happiness: "Where there is no vision, the people perish; but he that keeps the law, happy is he" (Prov. 29:18).

If every American would resolve to forget about the Joneses, and be the best, most law-abiding, productive person he is capable of being, we could have an American renaissance that could revolutionize our suffering world.

Bufs Will Try ENMU Saturday

After a two-week break for Christmas, the West Texas State University Buffaloes will get a work-out Saturday night which will work off their Christmas turkey.

The Bufs, with a 3-5 record -- the last five being losses --, will meet Eastern New Mexico University's champion Greyhounds Saturday night in Buffalo Fieldhouse.

The Greyhounds, who are going strong with a 6-2 record for the season, are defending NAIA champions and will be tough to shake from their conviction that they deserve the championship again this year.

The Bufs hopefully will be able to break their streak of bad luck experienced before the holidays on two road trips and will make the hometown crowd happy with a win.

There are several big boys on ENMU's squad who will be making sure the Bufs don't become home-pleasers.

Greg Hyder, a 6-6 senior, is a three-time All-American who has averaged 21 points per game this season, just a point shy of his average last year. Hyder is not only a top scorer, he is averaging 11.6 rebounds per game against various foes.

Backing up Hyder is Jim Guymon, a 6-3 player, who is averaging about 16 points per game. Guymon lettered last year when he averaged 14.6 points per game.

Hyder's little brother, Jerry is 6-0 and is averaging 15.1 points per game. He, too, lettered last year, and averaged 9.4 points per game.

Two part-time centers have started at various times for the Greyhounds. John Robertson, 6-5 junior, averages 7.3 points per game and John Arnold, 6-6 senior, averages 6.6 points.

Senior guard Larry Vanzant, 5-9, is shortest man on the team. He averaged 4.3 points, but has 43 assists in seven games.

As a team, ENMU began their season much better than last year. In that season, they stood even 4-4 for games played at the same time. They went on to win the championship with a 24-7 record.

The Greyhounds' two losses have been at the hands of Stephen F. Austin, 55-43, and Drury College, 48-47.

ENMU is averaging 71.6 points per game this season while holding opponents to a 67.3 average.

The Bufs this season are holding opponents to 71.4 points per game and are scoring 68 points.

Dale Blaut, 6-3 senior, is helping WTSU in the scoring department with a good 22.8 points per game average. James McCloud is hitting 15 points per game.

Junior College transfer Eddie Fitzgerald is hitting an average of 11.5 points and Ron Howle, 5-10 senior, is hitting 9.1 per game.

McCloud is WTSU's top rebounder with an average of 9.3 per game. Fitzgerald is pulling down 7.4 per outing.

Of the Bufs' five losses, only Utah State and Weber State -- both encountered on one road trip -- have lodged lopsided scores against the Bufs. Utah State won a 112-87 decision and Weber won 97-78.

The Bufs have also lost to Southwestern Louisiana, 69-67, Southern Mississippi, 75-72 and Oral Roberts University 86-83.

Young Cowboy Craves Excitement Of Rodeo

A thousand pounds of mean muscle guided by a brain caught in panic is a lot for a man to handle. It's even more for a youngster.

But, for Sid Morrow, an 18-year-old Canyon resident, a strong desire -- almost a compulsion -- has helped him overcome youth to brave the arena and try his hand at perhaps the most dangerous of rodeo sports -- bull riding.

Morrow is far from being a drug-store cowboy. In fact, his rodeo prowess has earned him a membership in the famed Rodeo Cowboys Association, an elite club for those who make it in a rough, rugged sport.

Morrow has competed in various RCA rodeos and several affiliated with the association. Although he has never earned a good deal of money for his time, travel and trouble, he has gained experience and experience is what counts when it comes to mounting an onery bull.

When he was about five, Morrow's father took the youngster to rodeos in Morrow's hometown area -- Des Moines, N. M. His father was a roper and rider himself and the bug caught Morrow young.

Soon after he rode his first calf. He loved it.

Later he competed in high school rodeos in his hometown and then before coming to West Texas State University as a freshman, he began making the circuit of rodeos in the West and Northwest.

He won a few and lost a few, but became more engrossed in the sport.

He said he's always wanted to be a rodeo performer. At home, he practices much of the day on several horses which he terms good buckers.

Practice is the thing in rodeo. Judges look for technique of the rider -- technique which can be gained only through hard work and experience.

Aoudad Season Open Saturday

County residents will have five days to hunt fast-moving and tricky Aoudad sheep beginning Jan. 3.

Twenty permits to Randall County landowners have been issued for the five-day season which ends Jan. 7.

Seven sheep were killed in the county last year.

Through last summer, Morrow stretched his experience even farther by participating in various rodeos. He's rodeoed in the Cow Palace in San Francisco and in Fort Worth and Amarillo.

Twice he's been badly hurt by bulls. Both times he was taken to the hospital. The first time, he remained in a coma four days.

When he got out of the hospital he signed for another rodeo, climbed back on another bull and not long after was thrown again.

This time, he landed in the hospital for just a day. He was out in no time and had entered another event at the same rodeo.

Why didn't he just quit rodeo after being hurt?

His desire, he said, He had to overcome any fear. He wants to make it big and do it through the arena.

Morrow was enrolled at WTSU until about two weeks ago when he had to quit school. His father is unable to run the family ranch, and Morrow has been commuting twice weekly to attend classes from Des Moines. The pace proved too much and Morrow has quit.

Even so, while staying home and minding the ranch, Morrow plans to take time off occasionally after the first of the year and travel the RCA circuit in Fort Worth, Amarillo and other places in the West.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Gray were in Clovis, New Mexico Christmas Eve with their son, Weldon, and his family and returned to Canyon by way of Muleshoe where they visited her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Osborne.

After returning to Canyon, the Grays visited in the home of his sister, Mrs. Reatha Hawthorne, where the Hawthornes' son, Ronnie, and family from Austin and daughter, Mrs. Vincent Raymond, and family from Oklahoma were guests.

Joining the group Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Osborne of Muleshoe and Mrs. Gray's niece, Ann Silbaugh, of Santa Anna, California.

Church Lets New Addition

Announcement was made by Rev. Bobby Meyers of the new addition of an educational building to the Southside Baptist Church.

The new construction, to be let on the east side of the existing building, is scheduled to start with ground breaking some time this week. The structure will contain approximately 1,800 square feet and has an estimated cost of about $10,000.

Completion plans are aimed for the middle of March but Rev. Meyers said he is optimistic and hopes the church will be using the new portion of the building by the last of February.

The frame construction with brick veneer is to have eight rooms that will serve as Sunday School rooms and a nursery.

Contractor for the new unit is Virgil Scott of Amarillo.

Dumas Downs CHS, Eagles Still Practice

The winter's first snow failed to deter the Canyon Eagles basketballers from continued practice as they seek to overcome a seeming mid-winter slump.

A disappointed boy's varsity returned from the Borger tournament with a lackluster 1-2 finish, losing to the Borger Bulldogs 102-58 in the opener, rebounding to topple Clayton, N. M., 90-62 then missing the mark with Dumas by a 66-62 score for the consolation title.

Jerry Landrum, averaging better than 20 points a game, was named to the all tournament team during the week-end competition.

The Texas Forest Service is continuing to offer seedling trees for windbreaking purposes to any Randall County landowner, according to John Brazzil, Randall County Agent. Brazzil said the deadline for ordering the seedling trees, which are priced at $2.50 per hundred, is Feb. 10.

"There is a regular order form available in my office," the agent said.

The seedlings are one-to-two years old and will be one to two feet high, according to Brazzil.

scrimmages early in the week in preparation for the Claude Tournament Thursday. The girls will meet Quitaque at 12 noon in the first round.

Coach Schneider stressed fundamentals Tuesday morning as the girls prepared to meet Dimmitt Tuesday night.

The girls worked heavily on base line defenses, trap plays, screens and man-to-man and zone defenses.

"Dimmitt always has a good club," Coach Schneider said. "They are always tough. They are in probably one of the toughest 2-AA districts in the state."

The girls were to take an 11-5 record into the Dimmitt game, and Schneider said of the recent lackluster games, "we're just going to have to snap out of it and play better ball."

"Defense is one area we are going to have to work on," he said. "We are fouling a little too much. One team we played shot 40 free shots and another 37."

Bond Set On Assault

A 31-year-old Amarillo man pled not guilty during arraignment Monday morning in Randall County Court to a charge of aggravated assault on his wife.

Charles E. Stuart of 3100 S. Hill Ave. in Amarillo is charged with assaulting Mrs. Cathie Stuart Christmas Day at their home.

Stuart was released on $500 bond pending County Court docket call Jan. 5.

Canyon's school board found themselves in the midst of controversy in the spring of 1967 when Mrs. Judy Rae Anderson tried to gain admission to Canyon Junior High School as a second semester ninth grader. The girl was 17 years old.

Canyon residents passed a $1,350,000 bond issue for the construction of a new, modern junior high school building to be located on the present junior high site. Also included in the issue were monies for the air conditioning of Rex Reeves Elementary School. The issue passed on May 18.

The Texas Highway Department in December announced the redesignation of U. S. 87 as an interstate highway--Interstate 27. The designation meant that Canyon would have to be by-passed by the highway and engineers are still working on plans for the proposed interstate route. Many residents on the present highway--which runs through the eastern section of Canyon--were disgruntled by the re-routing.

Later that May, city voters turned down a proposed city plan to install medians and left-turn signals on U. S. 87 at various intersections through town. The election was held after several merchants and businessmen with property on the highway protested the plan.

West Texas State's next giant step came when Gov. Preston Smith signed into law a bill creating WTSU's own board of regents. The action came in March, but the governor didn't name the nine regents until early fall. The board held its first meeting during homecoming activities in November and developed their philosophy as well as passed on routine business.

In mid-September, city residents voted to assess themselves a one per cent city sales tax. The tax, which will be levied on all items now taxed by the state, will go into effect April 1, 1970. City Commissioners promised a lowering of the ad valorem tax rate if the sales tax was passed.
